Mr. Gladstone's Manifesto.

Mr. GLADSTONE'S manifesto to the electors of Midlothian is short and to the point. The great champion of home-rule sounds the key-note of the approaching campaign with no uncertain ring. He defines the issue sharply, and leaves no doubt as to the question upon which he proposes to make his fight. The burden of his appeal is that there is no alternative to home rule save co. ercion. "Will you," he asks, "govern Ireland by coercion, or will you let Ireland manage her own affairs?" In describing the attitude of the Government and that of Lord Salisbunt, he says: "There are two clear, positive, and intelligent plans before the world: There is the plan of the Government and there is the plan of Lord SALISBURY. Our plan is that Ireland should, under well-considered conditions, transact her own affairs. His plan is to ask Parhament to renew repressive laws and enforce them resolutely for twenty years, by the end of which time, he assures us, Ireland will be fit to accept any government in the way of local government, on the repeal of the co ercion, laws you may wish to give her." Such language leaves no room for dodgingno room for introducing side issues in the hope of deluding electors and obscuring the real issue. Mr. GLADSTONE makes it plain that Parliamentary candidates must stand up squarely for or against home-rule. They must array themselves unequivocally upon the side of coercion or upon the side of home-rule. The Premier also makes a strong appeal to Englishmen and Scotchmen when, after coumerating the benetits that would follow the acceptance of the "Government's policy," he says:

"Government's policy," he says:

"Well, geutlemen, the first question I now put to you is, How shall Ireland be governed? There is another question behind it, and involved in it. How are England and Scotland to be governed? You know how, for the last six years especially, the affairs of Hugland and Scotland have been impeded, and your imperial Parliament discredited and disabled. All this happened while the Nationalists were but a small minority of the Irish members, without support from so much as a handful of members not Irish. Now they approach nunty, and are entitled to say, "We are speaking the views of the Irish nation." It is impossible to deal with this subject by half measures. They are strong in their numbers, strong in British support, which brought 313 members to vote for their country; strongest of all in the sense of being right. But, geutlemen, we have done our part, the rest remains for you. Electors of the country, may you be enabled to see through and cast away all delusions, refuse evil and choose good."

As a contemporary has aptly put it, this would seem to be in the nature of a proposition for a double emancipation. However, it should be remembered that the other side has not been heard, and that an appeal for the maintenance of the "integrity of the empire" is likely to have a tremendous effect if ably handled in the campaign.

The Rhode Island Storm.

There is no doubt about the fact that Rhode Island Republicanism is in a sad way. The little State is shaken from ocntre to boundary-lines. It is true that it would be impossible for Rhode Island to get up much of a shake. She hasn't the superficial area to command the atten-tion of a first-class political carthquake. But the vibration we allude to is significant all the same, for it cannot be denied that Rhode Island is a miniature Republican Gibraltar. For a long time our esteemed contemporary, the Providence treme partisan position. This has been made manifest as well in its disposition to be just to the South as in its criticisms of the stalwart leaders of its own party. In proportion as its attacks of negrobia-the worst malady from which it suffers-have decreased in violence it has become liberal. It made a long step in the matter of liberality in discussing the "Montgomery episode," and its recent slash at BLAINE afforded most gratifying evidences that it was getting the mastery over prejudice. All this, it seems, was but forerunner of a storm, which has at last burst. In a late issue the Journa declares that it is "quite unnecessary to say to the Republican party of the State of Rhode Island that the time has come when it must make an important, perhaps a final, decision as to the character of its methods." Indeed is the political officek hopeful when a paper like the Journal thus boldly kicks against Republican methods. If our Providence contemporary's utterances mean anything they mean that the day has passed in Rhode Island for attempting to hold the Republican party together by the "cohestre power of public plunder," or by waving the bloody shirt; and if that day has passed in Rhode Island it goes without saying that it has passed everywhere else.

A Cruel Joke. A cruel joke has been perpetrated upon one of our wild-eyed western Republican contemporaries. Some horrid wretch has stuffed it full of nonsense about the "conspiracy to pay the Confederate bonds," and lellion against the United States, or any claim for the loss or emancipation of any stave, but all such debts obligations, and claims shall beheld lilegal and void." Talk, therefore, about the payment of Confederate bonds is "unmitigated rot."

Welcome; to Make the Most of It. In their circular of last Saturday our Baltimore-broker friends print in parallel coumns the " Past Record of the Dispatch, 1880-'82," and "Present Record on the Pebt Question, 1885-'86." Their object is to show inconsistency on our part touching the debt question. As Messrs. HAMBLETON & Co. seek to pose as the embodiment of what is right, fair, and just, why were they not consistent enough to publish the fellowing paragraph from our issue of last Tuesday:
"As long as it was thought possible to

Tuesday:

"As long as it was thought possible to induce the people to pay what Virginia was obligated for in the original bond we were in favor of paving it. But when it was demonstrated that the people could not or would not pay that amount, that the debt question was being used by the worst elements in the State as a stepping-stone to power, and that it was rapidly becoming a question whether or not the bondholders would get anything at all, the Dispatch was compelled to take a new departure, and so endorsed a settlement which agreed to pay all that the majority of voters declared Virginia could pay. That settlement—the Riddleberger bill—was, under the circumstances, the bost that could be done for the State and her creditors. To that extent we think the Dispatch and the Democratic party have stood and stand between the bondholders and repudiation."

If after being supplemented by that state-If after being supplemented by that state-ment our Baltimore friends' parallels prove TUESDAYJUNE 15, 1886. inconsistency on the part of the Dispatch, Messrs, HAMBLETON & Co. and all others interested are welcome to make the most of it. It is the same kind of inconsistency the whole people of the South were guilty of in 1865.

The Philadelphia Press hits the nai square upon the head when it declares that a cursory reading of the southern papers at this time would convince the most skeptical that the people of that section favor the BLAIR educational bill by a large majority."

John Lannon, of Alexandris, Va., died recently at Garfield Hospital, Washington, after a long lilness. The St. John's Academy Journal says: "Mr. Lannon was born in Ireland and came to Alexandria with his stiffed it full of nonsense about the "conspiracy to pay the Confederate bonds," and it proceeds to lash itself into a terrible fury. It waves a Confederate bond as vigorously as it ever waved the bloody shirt, and evidently thinks that it can make the "great bond scheme" an issue in the next presidential campaign. Had our contemporary taken the trouble to look into the antecedents of Judge Fulleron, and to consult the fourth section of the fourteenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States, it would hardly have made such a spectacle of itself. Judge Fulleron, who is trying to engineer the scheme, is a Republican. The fourteenth amendment was ratified by enough of the States to make it a part of the Constitution, and twas so declared by a concurrent resolution of Congress July 21, 1868, and promulgated in a proclamation issued by the Secretary of State July 28, 1898. The fourth section of the fourteenth amendment reads as follows:

"The validity of the public debt of the United States, authorized by law, including debts incurred for payment of pensions and bounties for services in suppressing insurrection or rebellion, shall not be questioned. But neither the United States, nor any state, shall assume or pay any debt or obligation incurred in add of insurrection or re

SUNDAY AT WASHINGTON AND LEE UNIVERSITY, LEXINGTON.

The Baccalaureate Preached by Dr. Cooper, of Richmond-The Address Before the Y. M. C. A.

dence of the Rich mond Dispatch. (Correspondence of the Rich mond Dispatch.)
LEXINGTON, Va., June 13, 1886.
The closing exercises of Washington and Lee University commenced this morning in the University chapel with the baccalaureate sermon by the Rev. George Cooper, D. D., of Richmond, Va.
A levelier day than this beautiful Sabbata never dawned upon Lexington. The campus tooked like a stretch of velvety green, and the cool shade afforded by the trees in the Park made the day delicious and refreshing.

the Park made the day delicious and refreshing.

After the usual introductory services of prayer and praise, in which all the town ministers participated, Dr. Cooper came rotward and announced as his text, Hetrews 3d chapter, 12th verse: "Take heed, brethren, lest there be in any of you an evil heart of unbelief in departing from the living God." Dr. Cooper congratulated himself on having the honor and pleasure of taking part in the commencement exercises of Washington and Lee University. He loved young men, and was glad to have this opportunity to speak a word of advice to them just as they were leaving college to enter upon the great battle of life. He did not want to be classed with those who were continually complaining and grumbling with the age in which we live; yet at the same time he could not disguise the fact that unbelief in some aspects has never been mere comfortable and composing to men of culture than at the present area. the fact that unbeilet in some aspects has never been more confortable and composing to men of culture than at the present time. It is becoming conspicuous in high places, and in its more common form it is simply negative. It does not say you believe in a fallacy, no God and no intuite. There is a demand for young men in our land—young men of high moral etaracter—Christian young men. Man must have belief of some sort; it was absolutely indispensable to his nature. He must have a God. Religion is morality towards God. A life without faith in God is a life without height, and that is an unsymetrical life. If unbelief is to be petted and nursed by the cultured and the educated, who can reason as intelligent beams, what is to become of the great masses, who cannot and do not tablak for themselves, but are led on by the force and will of superior intelects. Man at his best is never better than his ideal; and he asked the young men before him to take as their ideal Christ, and for their rule and guide of life the Holy Bible. An evil heart of unbelief will separate you from the breit and purest, and will shut you off from the breit state and purest, and will shut you off from the breit state happiest side of An evil heart of unbefief will separate you from the best and purest, and will shut you off from the brishest and happiest side of this present world. Go forth, then, young men, to the duties which await you as servents of the living God. Do not be misted from the only true and living way; live up to the teachings of your fathers and drive back the hosts of modern infidelity, and as beck the hosts of modern infidelity, and as long as you live, no matter where your lot may be, down deep in your heart of hearts you carry with you the practical works and inestimable value of faith in God. These are my best wishes for you, and I pray God may abide with you through all the future. The sermon of Dr. Cooper, necessarily imperfectly outlined above, was a grand and able discourse, and exceedingly appropriate and innefty. He was listened to with unflagging attention and increasing interest during the whole time occupied in its delivery.

At night the Rev. R. N. Sledd, D. D., of Norfolk, delivered the annual address be-fore the Young Mens' Christian Associafore the Young Mens' Christian Associa-tion, subject "Christian Character In its Relation to Civil Liberty." The remarks of Dr. Sledd were in keeping with his repu-tation as a fine pulpit orstor, and were full of practical advice to the young men before him. Dr. Sledd had a large audience to hear him, and he never appeared to a better advantage than he did to-night. S.

Among them is the imperilling of future bodily comfort and the average tenure of life to which persons of moderately good constitutions are presumably entitled by impredence in eating and drinking and the reckless use of drugs. It is one of the happy capabilities of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters that it can repair damages thus indicted. When the blood is thin and watery, the bowels out of order, the complexion and tongue both giving evidence of billousness, there is a necessity for repairs upon the haman tenement obvious enough to startle its possessor. A course of the Bitters, the abandonment of "drugging" for relief, and a common-sense diet and mode of lifethese will speedily produce a change for the better. NEW GOODS AND NEW PRICES

WE DO OUR BUSINESS UPON THE PLAN OF NO MISREPRESENTATION WHEN WE BELLEVE IN KEEPING GOOD GOODS AND GIVING THE VERY BEST VALUES FOR THE MONEY.

YOU WILL ALWAYS FIND OUR GOODS FRESH AND CLEAN-NO SHELF-OR SHOP-WORN GOODS.

WE ASK THE LADIES AND OUR FRIENDS IN GENERAL TO GIVE US THEIR PATRONAGE, AND IT SHALL NOT BE MISPLACED. We have received many lots of

New and Pretty Goods for Summer Wear. DRESS GOODS will be sold at any price to close them out. They must go. So look out or the tumble.

SUMMER SILKS—An immense stock will be sacrificed. We are selling them at half Parasols, Parasols. There never was such a slaughter in the prices of PARASOLS as this week will show up. Our stock is entirely too large, and the only way to reduce it is to sell them for a very little money. CHILDREN'S PARASOLS almost given away. Ladies' Muslin Underwear & Children's Dresses.

the largest stock in this city. No trashy goods that won't bear inspection, but good honest, and reliable goods, well made, and we are solling them for much less than you can make them. White Goods, White Goods.

The largest display of WHITE GOODS in the city. We have everything that is stylish and desirable, from the cheapest up to the finest made.
